Don't Want any More Black Hills.

F. W. Stone, a young gentleman from New York City, came here on the 10th of September, and on the 12th, he in company with two other plucky young fellows whom he fell in with here, started out with a mule team, well provisioned, and well armed, for the Black Hills. Mr. Stone's party has returned. He informs us that he went within about fifty miles of the Black Hills, and could have gone further had he been so inclined, but existing circumstances they concluded it would be policy to return. They saw Indians every few days, and sometimes the reds made it rather unpleasant for the boys, as they would hover about them in such uncomfortable close proximity as to compel the party to throw themselves into a defensive attitude.

Mr. Stone says the Indians never attacked them during the night time, and this he attributes to the fact that he had with him a couple of very large hounds that would scent the Indians afar off, and they would keep up a deep baying while they were in the vicinity of the camp.

Mr. Stone and his companions were within two and a half miles of the scene of the fight between the Brule Indians and the Yankton party, and saw the Yankton boys after they got back home. They presented an altogether demoralized appearance, and every one of them bore some wound or bruise received during the engagement.

While Mr. Stone's party were at Niobrara, on their return trip, runners came in from Red Cloud's camp and reported about 3,000 warriors concentrated at that camp, with nearly twice that number at Spotted Tail's Agency, all of whom were apparently equipped for service, and it was believed they intended to make trouble for the expedition parties now scattered through that country on their way into the Black Hills.—Sioux City Journal, October 20th.

Utah News.
SALT LAKE, November 3d.—The question of Brigham Young's precarious health is still the subject of public controversy. Amelia, his favorite wife, declares that the Prophet's illness is nothing serious, and that he is good for ten years more at least.

Ann Eliza Young left this morning for the East under engagement for Redpath's star lecture course. The affairs of the National Bank are in an uncertain condition. The United States Bank Examiner is now investigating the concern.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company has taken a half interest in the Utah Southern Road, and the latter is to be pushed at once 25 miles south from Provo.

The three-card monte sharps have made up a purse to fight the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroad Companies, and they propose to employ eminent counsel. Public opinion and sympathy are decidedly in favor of the roads. The issue at law is, can the roads, as common carriers, adopt such rules as they wish for the protection of their passengers against offensive and dangerous characters? Shall the same be ejected from their trains and depot grounds?

Dispatch from Bradley's Private Secretary.
CARSON, November 4th.—To the San Francisco Evening Bulletin: From dispatches received thus far from different points in the State, it is quite safe to say that Bradley is elected. His majority cannot now be told, but doubtless will exceed one thousand. Ellis is probably elected.

CHITTENDEN THORNTON, Governor's Private Secretary.
The identical is making a stir in the cigar trade of Los Angeles. Read their advertisement to-day, and put that in your pipe and smoke it.

If you want anything in the gent's furnishing goods line—good goods at low prices—go to the "Identical," 38 Main street, Perry & Riley Block.

Everybody is wondering why the BAZAAR is selling their goods so cheap. The reason is they are clear out of their Spring and Summer goods to make room for the immense stock of Fall and Winter goods which they will soon receive.

The BAZAAR is now giving 12 yards Best American Prints for $1. Also, six yards 44 French and American prints for $1. At the corner of Main and Spring streets, opposite the U. S. Hotel.

CHARLES LINDLEY.

J. S. THOMPSON.

LINDLEY & THOMPSON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW,

SHREWY guessers do not hesitate to say that the suit of the Water Company against the HERALD is a spasm of effort to defeat the election of Mr. BEAUDRY. We regret that a worthy gentleman and valued citizen should be made responsible for a real or imaginary animadversion of the HERALD, but our regret that people see fit to attack him because they are enemies of the HERALD is in a great measure removed by the knowledge that in the case of the Water Company the assaults upon Mr. BEAUDRY will only add to his popularity with the people.

The organ of the Water Company says that corporation did a very unwise thing when it sued the HERALD for doubting the purity of the water sold to the residents of this city. This admission on the part of the Express is significant of a disposition to weaken on the part of the company. We hope they will not withdraw the suit before the case reaches a jury. We are anxious that the people of Los Angeles shall know all about the water they drink. There is another reason—a selfish one—why we hope the company will not withdraw the suit. It will make the HERALD a thousand friends and patrons where it now has but one. Let the suit go on; it will add to the HERALD's already extensive circulation. People like a paper that in the cause of right fears neither man, devil nor exclusive franchise companies.

The suit of the Water Company against the HERALD will work serious injury to the city of Los Angeles. It forces the HERALD Publishing Company to assume the defensive, and they will use every honorable means to prove that the water which the company has heretofore furnished to the city is pure and dangerous to the health of those who drink it. Of course people from abroad will not care to visit a city supplied with water of such doubtful character that its owners feel themselves called upon to meet every adverse comment with a libel suit. If the company are damaged to the amount of $25,000 by a newspaper paragraph, what will be the extent of their damage when the last of the HERALD's witnesses leave the stand? Our method of computation is not equal to the task of furnishing the figures.

The Express of last evening is full of blackguard attacks on the HERALD. We anticipated this course on the part of the little traitor. It is enlisted in a bad cause, and being without argument resorts to personal abuse and pol-parrot vituperation. The concern has never had the slightest influence in this community since it betrayed the Republican party, to which it was indebted for its very existence, and with the effrontery of a purchased tool advocated the election of a Democratic candidate, and since its unprompted insult to the German-born citizens and tacit acknowledgment that it is the mouthpiece of the Water Company it has sunk, if such a thing were possible, to a still lower level. The HERALD has a rod in its pickle for the little traitor, which it will feel when the details of that interview in the Supervisor's room are given.

The Rock to be Avoided.

People who have not carefully studied the situation are liable to fall into error regarding the causes which produced the great political revolution that is now convulsing the party organization of the nation, and none are more liable to be deceived in this respect than the leaders of the Democratic party. They suddenly find themselves lifted from the slough of Despond to the pinnacle of hope, and as parties as well as individuals are prone to attribute the result of accident, the effect of consequence, the combination which produces good luck, to better tact and sound judgment on the part of themselves, it is more than probable that Democrats will regard their recent victories as a tribute to their superior management and purer principles. Such a conclusion would be erroneous, and if fallen into, will nullify the victories already gained, wither the fruit that the party ought to gather, and rob the people of the good they hoped to gain by voting as they have. We warn the Democratic leaders of their danger; we counsel them to make haste slowly; we urge upon their consideration the importance of redeeming to the letter each and every pledge upon which they have secured their recent successes. Too much power is the mill-stone which has dragged the Republican party beneath the wave. A confidence in their invincibility made them careless in the selection of public servants, indifferent about the redemption of their pledges and almost strangers to the time-honored principles of the party. They have reaped the reward of the careless and untrustworthy, and the Democratic party is as blind as a mole and as reckless as a spendthrift. If it does not profit by the lesson of their discomfiture. The successes in the East will manufacture thousands of Democratic candidates. They will swarm like the locusts of Egypt, and unless frowns down will prove alike disastrous to the country. It is well for all parties, and especially the Democratic, to remember that the people are at last aroused to the importance—the necessity—of selecting as public servants only men of integrity and ability. The old leaders will not do. They have been weighed and found wanting, and if parties yield again to their leadership, they need but expect a renewal of the defeats they have suffered heretofore.

Mr. Tiffany's Paper Lies.

What the Express expects to accomplish by repeating after day that Mr. BEAUDRY is the owner of an exclusive water franchise granted by this city, is something which is just now puzzling those who were until recently Mr. TIFFANY's best friends. The statement is such a bald, palpable and seemingly premeditated falsehood that its daily repetition is becoming monotonous to the people. The fact is, and it has been several times set forth in the columns of the HERALD, that Mr. BEAUDRY has no exclusive water franchise in this city. Mark how plain a story shall Mr. TIFFANY's organ to the wall. In 1872 Mr. BEAUDRY obtained permission to convey water to a portion of the city to which the Los Angeles Water Company refused to lay their pipes. He did not ask for, did not receive, and does not claim an exclusive franchise to furnish water in that or any other locality. The Los Angeles Water Company may lay down pipes by the side of those now laid down by Mr. BEAUDRY and he will not offer the slightest objection. This does not look as though Mr. BEAUDRY held or claimed an exclusive franchise. As a settler to the Express' imaginary fears that the city may lose by a conflict between Mr. BEAUDRY and the Los Angeles Water Company we quote from the proceedings of the Council of October 24th, 1872 as reported in the Star of November 24th, 1872. The subject under consideration was the Mayor's veto of the BEAUDRY water ordinance.

Dr. Griffin (of the Water Company) here spoke. He said he had been advised by legal counsel that the ordinance as drawn might lead to litigation hereafter. He hoped Mr. BEAUDRY would stick to his ordinance, but he wanted the ordinance so drawn that there could be no interference hereafter with their rights.

Dr. Griffin said the document did not state where the water was coming from. If it were inserted that the water should be drawn from the zanjas and the river his company might have no objection. The ordinance as drawn that there could be no interference hereafter with their rights. Dr. Griffin said the document did not state where the water was coming from. If it were inserted that the water should be drawn from the zanjas and the river his company might have no objection. The ordinance as drawn that there could be no interference hereafter with their rights.

This settles the question of conflict. If Mr. BEAUDRY did not take the water from the zanjas or the Los Angeles river, the Los Angeles Water Company did not object, in fact, consented to his conveying water on the hill lands. He has not taken the water from either one or the other.

A Much Needed Institution.

Within a few weeks, from four to five thousand young women and girls have been instructed gratuitously in a range of household and kitchen duties, of which they were before partly or wholly ignorant. The instruction they have received in this short time has raised them from a state of penury and dependence to an independent position, and capable of earning from thirty to forty dollars per month besides their board. This truly benevolent work has been accomplished through the labor and energy of one noble woman. She had means, and she saw the great necessity of aiding the industrious helpless young women in New York. She was willing to contribute to their relief, but she saw also that the benevolent associations had failed to accomplish the much needed object. She hired a cook who was master of his trade and rented a room, then advertised that she would give instruction gratuitously to all the women and girls that would attend. The cook would prepare his dishes and lecture at the same time to all present, explaining all the processes by which such dishes are prepared. In this way he went over all the list of all the most desirable dishes, turning them out ready for the table. The girls saw the process, and learned it. The consequence was, five thousand girls, who could at best earn but four dollars a week before can now earn three or four times that sum. The name of Mrs. Honor of New York will go down to posterity as a benefactor of her race. We presume this will soon become a permanent institution in all the thousand cities of our country. There is more need of such an institution in the cities of California than any place we ever saw. This San Francisco Bulletin says: "On this side of the continent our houses are filled by Chinese servants. They come like the plague of Egypt, and they are really as much of a plague. One in ten of them make a tolerably good servant, the other nine are not fit to be in any decent house. They have learned the art of rendering the least and poorest service for the largest reward and this reward must be continually increased or JOHN drops his apron and flies the track. We might fear even worse. But this fact is apparent: we have got the best service in the kitchen the bronze servant will ever render. He is going down still lower, for he is on the down grade. He understands the household necessities and has learned that even less service than he renders will command more pay. He has no sympathy nor practical interest in the welfare of his employers and no Mandarin in his native country better understands the squeezing process than JOHN in this new home. What is wanted in Los Angeles to-day is four hundred well instructed young women, trained under the eye of such a woman as Mrs. HONOR. We could at once issue a declaration of independence. Can we not start an institution of the kind here? We have the offer from one man of the room and the fuel and he says his wife will attend every day to assist in instructing, and there is not a more competent or respectable lady in Los Angeles. We have heard some women (who are not girls) say they would be glad to take instruction from a good French or American cook who thoroughly understands his business; and we are not sure but that half the housewives in this city would be greatly benefited by a few lessons in the kitchen. Now have we not benevolent men with means who will contribute enough to employ the cook? Let us hear from our liberal then of Los Angeles. We feel assured that means can and will be forthcoming, provided a sufficient number of girls make application. Therefore we invite all the girls who wish to receive instruction to send us their names; we promise not to publish them.

Nevada Election.

VIRGINIA CITY, November 4th.—The counting of votes has not progressed very rapidly, and present appearances indicate that the election will not be concluded here till Thursday night or Friday morning. At 10:30 this morning the vote stood as follows at the Fourth Ward: For Governor—Bradley, 125; Adams, 124; Woodburn, 123. In the Second Ward at Gold Hill, at the same hour: Governor—Bradley, 205; Hazlett, 165. Lieutenant—Governor—Adams, 230; Bowman, 179. Congress—Ellis, 195; Woodburn, 123. In the Third Ward at Virginia City, at the same hour: Governor—Bradley, 205; Hazlett, 165. Lieutenant—Governor—Adams, 230; Bowman, 179. Congress—Ellis, 195; Woodburn, 123.

Dr. Griffin said the document did not state where the water was coming from. If it were inserted that the water should be drawn from the zanjas and the river his company might have no objection. The ordinance as drawn that there could be no interference hereafter with their rights. Dr. Griffin said the document did not state where the water was coming from. The New York Press on the Elections.

NEW YORK, November 4th.—The Herald says yesterday's elections were not merely a victory, but a revolution. This verdict of the people closes the political career of Grant and the third term is buried forever. The Herald admonishes Grant to devote the remainder of his political career to retrieving the mistakes which have brought discredit on his administration and defeat on his party. The Times says the result of the election will not be a surprise to anybody. It did not seem possible that the defeat, but the Republican leaders were deaf to advice or remonstrance. Unless the Republican party is conducted with greater wisdom and good fortune during the term of its next President, the Times predicts Tilden will be Grant's successor. The Tribune says the verdict of the country against Grantism is delivered. The questions are whether the people were whether the administration deserves public confidence and whether it ought to be perpetuated. Both have been answered in the negative. The public has grown weary of six years rule remarkable only for blundering and greed. The World says the election is as much a victory for the patriotic mass of the Republican party as the Democrats, and they have been the mad rioting of their leaders in the insolence of office has been rebuked and arrested. This is a victory for free trade, hard money and home rule. The Sun says Grant's administration has been shivered to atoms. It is the end of Grant and the finishing blow to the third term.

Loss of the Liverpool Coal Ship Centaurus. SAN FRANCISCO, November 5th.—The schooner Greyhound arrived today from Tahiti. She reports the loss of the Liverpool coal ship Centaurus by fire, August 18th, near the Marquesas group of islands. In about the same latitude as the ship Mogul was recently burned. When Captain Foster determined that the ship must be abandoned, the boats were lowered and the crew saved. The Centaurus was a heavy gale came on and in the night the boat containing Captain Foster and his men was capsized. The masts were lifted off they could save them but failed, owing to the darkness and heavy sea, and all perished. The number of the boat's crew is not given. After drifting around for seventeen days, the masts were picked up by the Nautilus, from this port. It was afterwards learned that the other masts had reached land safely, losing but one man out of seven in the perilous passage.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

STOCKTON, November 2d.—A man whose name was unknown was struck in the forehead by the local train going East to-night, about a quarter of a mile below Hanford. He lingered until the train arrived at Lathrop, where he died while having his wounds dressed. There was found on his person $26.25 in money, a razor and a knife. He was carrying a pair of shoes and hat slippers on his feet at the time of the accident. The remains were brought here, where an inquest will be held.

GAS.

The Union Gas Machine—A Successful Invention. It is Simple, Cheap, Safe and Convenient. Immunity from pit-time Monopolies. What It Is and What It Does.

Mr. John Knottwell, agent for the Union Gas Machine in Los Angeles and Southern California, has completed the erection and arrangement of one of his machines to supply the Herald office with gas. This is the first machine of the kind introduced and placed in successful operation in Los Angeles. As yet, the invention is almost totally unknown here, being of a comparatively recent date, but in other portions of the State and in Europe it is used extensively. Where placed in operation it has passed far beyond the bounds of an experiment and is declared an immense success. On Thursday and Friday evenings the Herald office was lighted throughout by the new apparatus and many prominent citizens called to observe its effects and examine the novel modus operandi of manufacturing light. By all it was pronounced a success in every particular; in the working of its machinery, the convenience and cheapness of operation and the quality of light furnished. As a result of these examinations Mr. Knottwell has received orders for three or four more machines, to be erected as soon as they can be brought here from San Francisco. For the benefit of our readers who take an interest in the subject—and few do not—we present a full description of

THE MACHINE, its appliances, operations and accomplishments. The generating apparatus is very simple in construction and compact, occupying a space only about seven feet square. It is removed from the main building some forty feet and covered with a small shed, in the rear on the line of New High street. The generator comprises three different machines, connected in a manner which will be subsequently described. The first is a water-wheel, one foot in diameter, enclosed in a cast-iron shell and supplied with a jet of water, which furnishes motive power for the machinery. The water is introduced in an ordinary pipe from the hydrant and enters the wheel in a jet scarcely larger than a knitting needle. The second machine is an apparatus spinning on a second's notice. The quantity of water used is very small, and may be judged from the fact that the little jet, when the generator is in full operation, is only kept running about ten minutes in an hour. This, then, is the motive power, and its novelty and ingenuity will be appreciated at the outset.

THE AIR-PUMP. The water-wheel connects with a series of cog-wheels which operate in turn upon the air-pump, forming machine No. 2 of the generator. This pump is constructed on the simplest principles possible for the work required. It is enclosed in a sheet-iron drum about fourteen inches in diameter by sixteen in length, and the space between the drum and the pump filled with water. This pump forces a supply of air through an inch pipe into

THE TANK. Where the gas is manufactured. This tank is about two feet in diameter by three in height, and placed in an upright position. It is constructed of sheet-iron and has three compartments—one for water, one where the gasoline, from which the gas is made, is combined with the air forced in by the pump, and one used as a reservoir for the gas. These three compartments are arranged as follows: About midway in the tank, a horizontal sheet-iron partition is inserted closing the lower portion into an air-tight reservoir, save only the connecting pipes for the admission of air from the pump and the escape of the manufactured gas into the upper or gas reservoir. In this lower tank, the gasoline in a liquid form is deposited. Above the partition, the tank is filled with water to the depth of a foot. Inside this compartment a disconnected tank is fitted, hung from above on a lever which permits it to rise and fall. This last tank is air-tight on the top and sides with the bottom entirely open. It sets in the water with its open end downwards and thus forms an air-tight reservoir, into which the gas rises through a pipe leading from the gasoline reservoir below. As the gas accumulates inside, the tank is forced up, and it ceases to rise when it has passed out in the main for consumption. The principle of operation is the same as that in all large receiving tanks used by gas companies. We have already mentioned the lower upon which the gas tank is hung. This lever is again hung on the water pipe which passes over the tank at the height of about six feet, and by means of a stop-cock controls the supply of water which runs in the machine. Having given a description of all the machinery, we will now proceed to describe

ITS OPERATION. Let us commence with the gas all exhausted from the tank. Having nothing on the inside to sustain it, the tank sinks in the water until it reaches the false bottom or partition in the outer tank. This brings the lever down, opens the cock in the water pipe, turns the jet of water upon the water wheel and the whole machinery is set in motion.

The water-wheel turns the cog-wheels which operate the air-pump; the pump forces air into the lower reservoir of the tank; the air thus supplied combines with the liquid gasoline and forms gas, and the gas thus manufactured rises through a small pipe to the gas tank, and thence passes into the main for use. As the machinery continues in operation, the gas enters the tank and when filled to its utmost capacity the lever is raised, opens the stop-cock in the water pipe, cuts off the supply and the machinery stops. Thus a supply of gas has been accumulated in the tank which passes out in the pipes to the building where it is consumed. As it passes out, of course, the gas tank sinks again, sets the machinery in motion and in turn accumulates another supply. Thus we have a continuous supply.

SELF-REGULATING. Machine, which, barring the supply of air and gasoline necessary, amounts to the fabulous perpetual motion. So nice is the arrangement that when properly charged with the material for the manufacture of gas (the capacity being about forty gallons of gasoline), the machinery can be locked up and left without any attention for weeks or months, or until another supply of gasoline is necessary.

From our description, of course, only a confused and uncertain idea of the apparatus can be gained.

IT MUST BE SEEN. To be appreciated. After a long and critical examination, we are compelled to pronounce it one of the most ingenious pieces of mechanism which has ever come under our observation. To those who are interested in this new method of manufacturing gas we extend a cordial invitation to visit the Herald office on any evening of the week and see the machine for themselves when it is in full operation.

IT IS SAFE AND RELIABLE. Many objections are raised to the Union Gas Machine on the grounds that it is unsafe. This is purely a canard. There is no fire used in any part of the process and the gas or gasoline cannot be thus ignited. From danger by lights or fire near the machinery it is also protected, as the gasoline is confined in a tank covered with water and the gas is guarded from escaping in the same manner. The pressure on the tank does not exceed six ounces to the square inch, or, in other words, is no more than the pressure of a bucket of water upon its sides. The idea of an explosion is simply ridiculous.

THE QUALITY OF GAS. Is much superior to the ordinary coal gas. It has none of the unpleasant odor while burning which characterizes the article generally supplied to this city by the Gas Company. It also contains less air than the ordinary coal gas and will, on that account, burn one-third longer. The light furnished is all that can be desired. It is full, bright and steady and emits neither smoke nor smell. For proof of this, we can only invite an inspection of the burners used in our office.

ITS COST. The machine of the size attached to the Herald office, with a capacity of thirty-five burners, costs in San Francisco about $350. The additional cost for freight, putting up and connecting with pipes is not heavy. When in operation, the expense is far less than the charges levied upon consumers by gas companies. One gallon of gasoline, costing 2 cents, will make 200 feet of gas which will burn in a large hall, factory or town not provided with a general supply of gas manufactured by a company, the Union Gas Machine is of great practical value. It is destined, we believe, to come into more general use as it becomes better known, and thus it will work something of a revolution in the existing franchise held by powerful companies in every city of any size in the land. We believe the Union Gas Machine to be safe, reliable, cheap, and altogether, just what it is recommended.

HIGHWAYMEN ABROAD.

Six Outlaws Stop Two Stages, One of Which They Rob—All Well Mounted and Heavily Armed.

From the Stockton Independent of the 3d instant we learn the following particulars of a daring stage robbery: The stages of J. C. Sline and Miller & Co. were stopped by six masked highwaymen at about half-past 10 o'clock on Monday morning, while on the road from Sonora to Milton, at a point between Salt Spring valley and the town of Milton, Calaveras county. The robbers, first having left their horses a few hundred yards from the road, appeared on foot, as the opposition stage (owned by J. C. Sline) came up, and presenting cocked pistols and shot guns at the driver and passengers, they ordered an immediate surrender of the treasure-box. Mr. Sline very politely informed them that he drove the opposition stage and was not the unfortunate possessor of any treasure-box, whereupon these chivalrous knights of the road ordered him to drive on, which he lost no time in doing, as they turned their attention to the regular stage, which was observed coming down the road from a distance.

A TREASURE-BOX CAPTURED.

As Miller's stage came along, the robbers were in waiting and the attack was conducted systematically. One stood at the middle of the road, one at each of the leading horses' head, one on each side, covering the passengers, and the sixth man took the express-box from the driver, Mr. Miller, who saw that resistance was useless. The robbers expressed considerable satisfaction on receiving the treasure-box, which contained the Chinese and Big Oak Flat express money and notes. The passengers were not robbed or detained, and Mr. Miller was allowed to proceed without further molestation, thus escaping with the box containing the Sonora and Columbia express, it being overlooked, and the U. S. mails also remained intact.

THE MAN WHO DEMANDED THE TREASURE-BOX.

Is said to be about five feet seven inches in height, about one hundred and sixty pounds in weight, wore a black felt hat, had an accent slightly Spanish, and carried a pistol. When last seen the robbers were mounted on their horses and riding fast towards Salt Spring valley. There were ten passengers on the stage at the time, and there was only one pistol among them, which was carried by a Chinaman. While the robbers were in the act of robbing, the Chinaman concealed his revolver in one of his boot-legs, but for what purpose is not known.

THEIR BOOTY TRIFLING.

A reward of $250 is offered by Wells, Fargo & Co. for the arrest and conviction of each of the robbers and they will add to the gross sum one-fourth of the treasure recovered. It is believed that the amount of money the stolen box contained was comparatively trifling.
